

Healing Hotels offers Healing Certification

Certification stresses the healing advantage

Cologne, Germany, 7 June 2021 -- As the world starts to get back to a new normal in the wake of Covid-19, healing is in high demand. With borders opening and travel resuming, people want to feel secure that hotels not only adhere to the strictest safety measures, but can also credibly cater to the growing need for a healing experience to help them recover from the trauma of living for more than a year in a Covid-battered world.

To respond to this demand, Healing Hotels of the World is now offering their member hotels a new Healing Certification. Based on the comprehensive healing excellence criteria that member hotels must meet before joining Healing Hotels, as well as adherence to Covid safety measures relevant to their region, this certification allows member hotels to effectively communicate their healing advantage.

“The Healing Certification shows member hotels’ commitment to healing on both a safety and a holistic level,” says Anne Biging, Co-Founder of Healing Hotels of the World. “Covid-19 safety protocols are coupled with the hotels’ deeply nourishing programs to create healing havens for body, mind, and soul. We know that spending time at one of these special destinations will help guests find a release from the stress we have all experienced over this past year, and provide a new sense of peace and vitality.”

The Healing Certification will be awarded in both the Resort and Urban Healing Hotels of the World collections. Member hotels must fulfill the Covid safety measures relevant to their region, with guidance from the World Health Organization.

In addition, many Healing Hotels of the World are also offering programs specifically designed to help people heal from the trauma of the past year. Examples include:
