

Where Ancestral Wisdom Meets Modern Healing in the Heart of Ecuador

Korimana Healing Retreat joins Healing Hotels of the World, introducing a new model of transformational wellbeing rooted in nature, ritual, and conscious design.

April 7, 2026, Germany / Ecuador-- Healing Hotels of the World welcomes Korimana Healing Retreat in Ecuador to its global portfolio, marking a defining moment for the country's emerging wellness landscape. Set where the Andes meet the tropical lowlands, Korimana introduces a new model of transformational wellbeing, one that weaves together ancestral wisdom, contemporary therapeutic practices and a deep connection to nature to support lasting personal change.

More than a retreat, Korimana offers a highly individual approach to healing. Each stay is carefully curated to support physical, emotional and spiritual wellbeing, integrating Andean and Amazonian traditions with modern modalities. Experiences such as Temazcal rituals, sound healing, meditation and cacao ceremonies guide guests through processes of release, recalibration and renewed clarity.

At the heart of the retreat lies Splendor Water, a natural spring revered for its purity and energetic qualities. This elemental presence is woven into daily rituals and treatments, shaping an immersive environment where healing unfolds through stillness, intention and connection to the land.

Korimana's philosophy extends beyond the individual. Developed in close collaboration with local and Indigenous communities, the retreat supports regional craftsmanship, preserves ancestral knowledge systems and operates with a strong commitment to environmental stewardship, protecting the ecosystems that make this work possible.

"Korimana is a sanctuary of transformation and healing, a living legacy devoted to elevating human consciousness and inspiring meaningful change. Through a collaborative model that honors nature, empowers local communities and integrates ancestral wisdom with modern hospitality, Korimana seeks to position Ecuador as a global destination for healing and wellness tourism while protecting the land that makes it possible,” says Carlos Chavez, CEO of Korimana Healing Retreat.

With its addition, Healing Hotels of the World continues to expand its global portfolio of purpose driven properties.

“Korimana represents the kind of place we are committed to supporting, where healing is not an offering but a way of being,” says Anne Biging, founder of Healing Hotels of the World. “Its integration of ancestral wisdom, community and conscious hospitality reflects a deeper shift in how we understand wellbeing today.”

Korimana’s arrival signals a broader evolution within the wellness travel space, toward experiences that are not only restorative, but truly transformative, grounded in authenticity and designed for lasting impact.
